Job Action

Under Review: No

Issued by Council: Jan 1, 2010

Reissued by Council: Jan 1, 2021; Apr 1, 2017

The Standards of Practice of the College of Physicians & Surgeons of Alberta (“CPSA”) are the minimum standards of professional behavior and ethical conduct expected of all regulated members registered in Alberta. Standards of Practice are enforceable under the Health Professions Act and will be referenced in the management of complaints and in discipline hearings. CPSA also provides Advice to the Profession to support the implementation of the Standards of Practice.

Note: a glossary of terms can be found at the end of this document. Glossary terms are indicated in teal with a “^G” throughout this document.

PREAMBLE

This standard applies to “job action^G,” which is the threatened or actual withdrawal of services^G to further a negotiating position during a dispute. The ultimate responsibility for any withdrawal rests with each regulated member to ensure their actions are consistent with the ethical and professional standards expected of regulated members.

A regulated member’s decision to close or leave a medical practice or to change their pattern of practice based on personal or financial considerations does not constitute job action unless these actions are intended to compromise access to physician services to further a negotiating position. Regulated members must abide by the relevant standards of practice when closing, leaving^G or making changes to their scope of practice.

The Job Action standard of practice does not affect the ability of regulated members to advocate for their patients’ interests, their own interests or the interests of the health care system as a whole; however, if this advocacy is accompanied by job action, as defined, the provisions of this standard of practice apply.

Wherein evaluating a dispute involving a limitation or withdrawal of regulated member services CPSA determines the alternative resources established are ineffective or inadequate, such that an undue risk of harm to patients has been created, CPSA may insist that some or all of the regulated members involved in the withdrawal of service must continue to provide medical services that are in alignment with this standard of practice. In these circumstances, in accordance with its legislated responsibility to establish and enforce ethical and professional standards of practice, CPSA must consider the prevention of patient harm as its primary responsibility and take whatever action is available under the Health Professions Act to meet that responsibility.

Terms used in the Standards of Practice:

- “Regulated member” means any person who is registered or who is required to be registered as a member of this College. The College regulates physicians, surgeons and osteopaths.
- “Must” refers to a mandatory requirement.
- “May” means that the physician may exercise reasonable discretion.
- “Patient” includes, where applicable, the patient’s legal guardian or substitute decision maker.

STANDARD

A regulated member must not engage in job action, except under extremely controlled circumstances. The following must be considered prior to the contemplation of any form of job action:

1. Regulated members must fulfill their professional responsibilities^G and uphold the reputation of the profession by providing services to those in need of urgent/emergent^G care during job actions.
2. In determining what constitutes urgent/emergent or necessary medical care, regulated members must use their clinical judgment, informed by the existing health status and specific needs of patients, and regulated members' individual and collective responsibilities to provide care.
3. When contemplating a job action, regulated members must first explore all alternative options that may be available to resolve the concern that has motivated their desire to withdraw services.
4. If the concern cannot otherwise be resolved, regulated members must consider the following before making the decision to withdraw services:
 - a. what is in the best interests of patients;
 - b. whether patients will be abandoned;
 - c. whether patients will be deprived of access to urgent/emergent medical care; and
 - d. whether patients will be put at risk of harm.
5. If, after carefully considering the above factors, regulated members decide that proceeding with a withdrawal of services is not contrary to their professional responsibilities, they must take into consideration the impact on patients in their unique clinical circumstances and consider the following:
 - a. the nature and location of the practice and the patient population served; and
 - b. the availability and adequacy of alternative resources for the care, ongoing monitoring and transfer of patients.

Terms used in the Standards of Practice:

- “Regulated member” means any person who is registered or who is required to be registered as a member of this College. The College regulates physicians, surgeons and osteopaths.
- “Must” refers to a mandatory requirement.
- “May” means that the physician may exercise reasonable discretion.
- “Patient” includes, where applicable, the patient’s legal guardian or substitute decision maker.

6. In order to protect patients in the event of a withdrawal of services, regulated members must:
 - a. make arrangements for communication or consultation with other care providers to ensure the appropriate transfer of care⁶ of patients. This may require physician-to-physician communication in situations where a regulated member is required to re-assess patients;
 - b. provide written notification of the intended withdrawal of services to CPSA, appropriate health authority medical leaders and others involved in the delivery of hospital and medical services: the period of notice may vary depending upon the specific circumstances, but must be reasonable to allow the hospital or health authority an opportunity to review with the regulated members the nature, extent and impact of the proposed action and to consider any arrangements that need to be made in response;
 - c. maintain awareness of the impact of the withdrawal of services on an ongoing basis to ensure the initial arrangements for patient care continue to be adequate; and
 - d. if urgent/emergent care requirements are not being met, alter the arrangements to ensure patients receive adequate care.
7. An entire group⁶ of regulated members or an entire hospital department must not engage in a withdrawal of services for the purpose of job action unless all the requirements of clauses 3-6 are met.
8. Regulated members may want to obtain independent legal advice from the Canadian Medical Protective Association (CMPA) or legal counsel regarding their legal responsibilities.

GLOSSARY

Job action: the threatened or actual withdrawal of services to further a negotiating position during a dispute.

See the Closing or Leaving a Medical Practice standard of practice for more information.

Urgent/emergent: a condition is considered “urgent” when it is not life-threatening, but requires care in a timely manner (within 24 hours); “emergent” care is medical care that, if not provided, would likely result in the need for crisis intervention due to concerns of potential danger to self, others or grave disability.
